

SLA Scholarship Award 2010

By Iris Ang

SLA presented the 2010 Local Undergraduate Scholarship Award to this year's recipient, Ms Gao Siqi, over a Tea Session on 20 July. The event was hosted by SLA Senior Management and attended by Siqi, her parents and assigned mentor - Ms Tay Lee Koon, SDD/PPD. SLA's Scholarship programme forms part of our people development strategy to attract and nurture top talents for our organisation.

Siqi, who will be pursuing a Double Degree in Chemical Engineering and Accountancy at the NUS in August 2010, has had a taste of working life in SLA through an internship attachment with us recently. These are what she shared after receiving the award :

"Before starting my university life, I had a brief but worthwhile internship at SLA. This further convinced me that SLA is where I want to develop my career. The working environment is warm and cosy with friendly mentors and colleagues. The nature of the work is challenging at times as novel ideas are needed for land management to accommodate the increasing population and climatic changes that Singapore is facing. I feel very grateful that SLA has awarded me the scholarship and certainly look forward to being part of the team."

On behalf of SLA, we congratulate Siqi on receiving the award and welcome her to the SLA family.
